II. FISCAL YEAR AND STANDARD CURRENCY UNIT USED IN ACCOUNTING

1. Fiscal year

Fiscal year of the Corporation is from 1 January to 31 December annually.

2. Standard currency unit used in accounting

The standard currency unit used in accounting is Vietnam dong (VND).

III. ACCOUNTING STANDARDS AND SYSTEM APPLIED

1. Accounting system

The Corporation applies the Vietnamese Accounting System issued under Circular No. 200/2014/TT-BTC ("Circular 200"), which provides guidance on Accounting System for enterprises issued by the Ministry of Finance on December 22, 2014, and Circular No. 53/2016/TT-BTC dated March 21, 2016, amending and supplementing Circular No. 200/2014/TT-BTC, also issued by the Ministry of Finance.

2. Statement on the compliance with the accounting standards and system

The Corporation has applied the Vietnamese Accounting Standards and the related guiding documents issued by the State. The separate financial statements have been prepared and presented in full compliance with all provisions of each standard, the circulars guiding the implementation of the standards, and the current Vietnamese Accounting System.

IV. ACCOUNTING POLICIES APPLIED

1. Foreign currency transactions

Foreign currency transactions arising are converted at the exchange rate on the transaction date. The balances of monetary items with foreign currency origins at the end of the period are converted at the exchange rate on this date.

The exchange rate used to convert foreign currency transactions is the actual exchange rate at the time the transaction arises. The actual exchange rate for foreign currency transactions is determined as follows:

- The actual transaction rate for foreign currency purchases and sales (spot foreign exchange contracts, forward contracts, futures contracts, options contracts, swap contracts): The contract rate specified in the foreign currency purchase and sale contract between the Corporation and the bank.

HANOI BEER ALCOHOL AND BEVERAGE JOINT STOCK CORPORATION

Address: 183 Hoang Hoa Tham, Ngoc Ha Ward, Hanoi City

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

- In case the contract does not specify the payment rate:

+ For receivables: The buying rate of the commercial bank where the enterprise designates the customer to make payment at the time the transaction arises.

+ For payables: The selling rate of the commercial bank where the enterprise plans to trade at the time the transaction arises.

+ For asset purchases or expenses paid immediately in foreign currency (not through accounts payable): The buying rate of the commercial bank where the enterprise makes the payment.

The exchange rate used to revalue the balances of items with foreign currency origins at the end of the period is determined based on the following principles:

+ For foreign currency deposits in the bank: The buying rate of the bank where the enterprise opens the foreign currency account.

+ For monetary items with foreign currency origins classified as other assets: The foreign currency buying rate of the commercial bank where the enterprise frequently transacts at the time of preparing the separate financial statements.

Foreign exchange differences arising in the year from foreign currency transactions are recognized in financial income or financial expenses. The exchange rate difference due to the revaluation of monetary item balances at the end of the year, after offsetting increases and decreases in differences, is accounted for in financial income or financial expenses.

2. Principles to determine cash and cash equivalents

Cash includes cash at the fund, demand deposits in bank, monetary gold used with value storage functions, excluding gold classified as inventory used for the purpose of raw materials, materials to manufacture products or goods for sale.

Cash equivalents are short-term investments with a maturity of no more than 3 months from the date of purchase, easily convertible into a specified amount of money and without much risk in conversion into money.

3. Accounting principles for financial investments

a) Held-to-maturity investments

Held-to-maturity investments include investments that the Corporation intends and is able to hold until maturity. These investments comprise: fixed-term bank deposits (including treasury bills and promissory notes), bonds, preferred shares where the issuer is obligated to repurchase them at a specified future date, loans held to maturity for the purpose of earning periodic interest, and other held-to-maturity investments.

Held-to-maturity investments are recognized starting from the purchase date and initially measured at purchase cost, including any transaction-related costs. Interest income from held-to-maturity investments after the purchase date is recognized in the separate income statement on an accrual basis. Interest accrued prior to the Corporation's holding of the investment is deducted from the principal at the time of purchase.

A provision for impairment of held-to-maturity investments is made when there is clear evidence showing that part or all of the investment may not be recoverable. This provision is recognized as a financial expense during the period.

b) Investments in subsidiaries, joint ventures, and associates

Investments in subsidiaries are accounted for using the cost method. Net profits distributed by the subsidiary arising after the investment date are recognized in the separate income statement. Other distributions (apart from net profits) are considered as a recovery of investments and are recorded as a reduction in the carrying amount of the investment.

An associate company is a company over which the Corporation has significant influence, but it is neither a subsidiary nor a joint venture of the Corporation. Significant influence is the right to participate in decisions regarding the financial and operating policies of the investee without control or joint control over those policies.

c) Investment in equity instruments of other entities

Investments in equity instruments of other entities represent equity investments where the Corporation does not have control, joint control, or significant influence over the investee.

Investments in equity instruments of other entities are recorded at their original cost, less any provision for impairment of investments.

d) Provisions for impairment of investments in subsidiaries, associates, and equity contributions to other entities

Provisions for impairment of investments are made when there is clear evidence indicating a decline in the value of these investments at the end of the accounting period in which the separate financial statements are prepared.

Any increase or decrease in the provision for investment impairment is recognized in financial expenses.

4. Principles of recognizing trade receivables and other receivables

Receivables are presented at their carrying amount, net of any provision for doubtful debts.

The classification of receivables as trade receivables or other receivables is based on the following principles:

- Trade receivables represent amounts arising from commercial transactions, including amounts receivable from consigned export sales on behalf of other entities.

- Other receivables refer to non-commercial amounts that are not related to purchase and sale transactions.

The provision for doubtful debts reflects the estimated value of receivables that the Corporation anticipates may be lost or unrecoverable as of the end of the accounting period. Any increase or decrease in the balance of the provision account is recorded as administrative expenses in the separate income statement.

Receivables are categorized as short-term or long-term based on their remaining maturity periods.

5. Principles for inventory recognition

Inventories are recognized at the lower of cost and net realizable value.

The cost of inventories is determined as follows:

- Raw materials and merchandise: Includes purchase costs and other direct costs incurred to bring the inventories to their current location and condition.

- Finished goods: Includes the main raw material costs, direct labor costs, and related general manufacturing costs allocated based on normal operating levels.

- Work in progress: Includes main raw material costs, direct labor costs, and general manufacturing costs.

Net realizable value is the estimated selling price of inventories at the end of the period minus the estimated costs to complete and sell them.

The cost of inventories is calculated using the weighted average method and is accounted for on a perpetual basis.

Provisions for inventory devaluation are made for each inventory item whose original cost exceeds its net realizable value. For unfinished services, provisions are calculated for each type of service with distinct pricing. Any increase or decrease in the balance of the provision for inventory devaluation that needs to be made as of the end of the financial year is recognized in the cost of goods sold.

Address: 183 Hoang Hoa Tham, Ngoc Ha Ward, Hanoi City

FINANCIAL STATEMENTSNotes to the separate financial statements (continued)*6. Principles for the recognition and depreciation of tangible and intangible fixed assets

Fixed assets are presented at historical cost less accumulated depreciation. The historical cost of fixed assets includes all costs incurred by the enterprise to acquire the fixed assets until they are in a condition ready for use. Subsequent expenditures are only added to the historical cost of fixed assets if these expenditures certainly increase the future economic benefits from using the asset. Expenditures that do not meet this condition are recognized as production and business expenses in the period.

When fixed assets are sold or disposed of, the historical cost and accumulated depreciation are written off, and any gains or losses arising from the disposal are recognized in income or expenses for the year.

Depreciation of assets is calculated using the straight-line method. The estimated depreciation periods are as follows

Type of asset	Depreciation period (years)
	Current period	Previous period
Buildings and structures	05 – 25	05 – 25
Machinery and equipment	03 – 15	03 – 15
Transportation means	06 – 10	06 – 10
Management tools	03 – 08	03 – 08
Other fixed assets	03 – 05	03 – 05
Brand	04	04
Computer software	03 – 08	03 – 08

The historical cost of fixed assets and the depreciation period are determined in accordance with Circular No. 45/2013/TT-BTC dated April 25, 2013, issued by the Ministry of Finance, providing guidance on the management, use, and depreciation of fixed assets, and other relevant regulations.

7. Principles for the recognition and allocation of prepaid expenses

Prepaid expenses related only to production and business costs within the year are recognized as short-term prepaid expenses and allocated to production and business expenses of the same year.

The calculation and allocation of long-term prepaid expenses to production and business costs for each accounting period are based on the nature and magnitude of each type of expense to select a reasonable allocation method and basis. Prepaid expenses are gradually allocated to production and business expenses using the straight-line method.

8. Principles for the accounting of business cooperation contracts

Joint venture capital contributions are agreements based on contracts under which the Corporation and participating parties undertake economic activities under joint control. Joint control refers to the requirement that strategic decisions concerning the financial and operating policies of the joint venture entity must be unanimously agreed upon by all joint controlling parties.

In cases where a member company directly engages in business operations as per the joint venture agreements, the capital contributions to jointly controlled assets and any shared liabilities incurred with other joint venture partners from the operations of the joint venture are accounted for in the Corporation's separate financial statements and classified based on the nature of the arising economic transactions. Liabilities and costs directly related to the capital contributions in jointly controlled assets are accounted for on an accrual basis. Income from the sale or use of product shares distributed from joint venture operations, as well as the related costs incurred, is recognized when it is certain that economic benefits from these transactions will be received by or distributed from the Corporation, and such benefits can be measured reliably.

Joint venture agreements involving the establishment of an independent business entity with joint venture partners are referred to as jointly controlled business entities.

9. Principles for the recognition of liabilities and accrued expenses

Liabilities and accrued expenses are recognized for amounts payable in the future related to goods and services received. Accrued expenses are recognized based on reasonable estimates of the amount payable.

The classification of liabilities into trade payables and other payables is performed according to the following principles:

- Trade payables reflect the amounts payable of a commercial nature arising from transactions of purchasing goods, services, assets, and the seller is an independent entity from the Corporation, including amounts payable upon import through a trustee.
- Accrued expenses reflect the amounts payable for goods and services received from the seller or provided to the buyer but not yet paid due to the absence of invoices or incomplete accounting documents, and amounts payable to employees for vacation wages, production, and business expenses to be accrued.
- Other payables reflect the amounts payable that are not of a commercial nature, not related to the transactions of buying, selling, or providing goods and services.

10. Principles of recognizing owners' equity

Owner's contributed capital

Owner's contributed capital is recognized based on the actual contributed capital of the shareholders.

Other owner's equity

Other capital is formed from additional business results, revaluation of assets, and the remaining value between the fair value of donated, gifted, or sponsored assets after deducting any applicable taxes (if any) related to these assets.

Profit distribution

Profit after corporate income tax is distributed to shareholders after appropriations to funds as per the Corporation Charter and legal regulations, and as approved by the General Meeting of Shareholders.

The distribution of profits to shareholders considers non-monetary items within undistributed post-tax profits that may affect cash flows and the ability to pay dividends, such as gains from revaluation of contributed assets, revaluation gains from monetary items, financial instruments, and other non-monetary items.

Dividends payable to shareholders are recognized as liabilities in the Corporation's consolidated balance sheet following the resolution of the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders, the resolution of the Board of Directors, and the establishment of the record date for dividend entitlement by the Central securities depository.

Other funds

Other funds are established and utilized in accordance with the Corporation's Charter and the resolutions approved annually by the General Meeting of Shareholders.

11. Principles for the recognition of revenue and income

Revenue is recognized when the Corporation is likely to receive economic benefits that can be reliably measured. Revenue is determined at the fair value of the amounts received or to be received, after deducting trade discounts, sales returns, and allowances. The following specific conditions must also be satisfied before revenue is recognized

Address: 183 Hoang Hoa Tham, Ngoc Ha Ward, Hanoi City

Revenue from sales of goods and finished products

Revenue from the sale of goods and finished products is recognized when all of the following conditions are satisfied:

- The significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods have been transferred to the buyer;
- The company no longer retains managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership, nor does it have effective control over the goods sold;
- The revenue can be measured reliably. If the contract allows the buyer to return the goods under specific conditions, revenue is only recognized when those conditions no longer exist and the buyer no longer has the right to return the goods (except in cases where the customer may exchange the goods for other goods or services);
- It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the company;
- The costs incurred or to be incurred in respect of the transaction can be measured reliably.

Service revenue

Revenue from rendering of services is recognized when the outcome of the transaction can be measured reliably. When services are rendered over multiple accounting periods, revenue is recognized by reference to the stage of completion at the end of the reporting period, in accordance with the percentage-of-completion method. The outcome of a service transaction can be measured reliably when all of the following criteria are met:

- The amount of revenue can be measured reliably. If the contract grants the customer the right to return the service under specific conditions, revenue is recognized only when such conditions no longer exist and the customer no longer has the right to return the service;
- It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the entity;
- The stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date can be measured reliably;
- The costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the transaction can be measured reliably

Interest income

Interest income is recognized on an accrual basis and is determined based on the balance of deposit accounts and the actual interest rates for each period.

Dividends and profits received

Dividends and profits are recognized when the Corporation becomes entitled to receive them from its investment. Dividends received in the form of shares are only monitored as an increase in the number of shares and are not recognized for their value.

Revenue deductions

This category reflects adjustments reducing sales revenue and service revenue incurred during the year, including trade discounts, sales returns, and allowances. It does not reflect taxes deducted from revenue, such as output VAT calculated using the direct method.

Revenue adjustments are conducted as follows:

- Trade discounts, sales returns, and allowances incurred in the same period as the consumption of products, goods, and services are deducted from the revenue of that period;
- For products, goods, and services sold in prior years, if trade discounts, sales returns, or allowances occur in subsequent periods, the revenue reduction is recorded according to the following principles:

HANOI BEER ALCOHOL AND BEVERAGE JOINT STOCK CORPORATION

Address: 183 Hoang Hoa Tham, Ngoc Ha Ward, Hanoi City

+ If the adjustments occur after the consumption of products, goods, and services in prior years but before the issuance of the separate financial statements, these adjustments are treated as post-balance sheet events requiring adjustment. They are recorded as revenue reductions in the separate financial statements of the reporting period (prior year).

+ If the adjustments occur after the issuance of the separate financial statements, the revenue reduction is recorded in the reporting period during which the event occurs (current period).

12. Principles for the recognition of cost of goods sold

Cost of goods sold is recognized in accordance with the revenue recorded during the period and in compliance with the principle of prudence.

In cases where direct material costs are abnormally high, or where labor and manufacturing overhead costs are not allocated to the cost of inventories, such costs are expensed directly to cost of goods sold (net of any recoveries or compensations, if applicable), even if the related products or goods have not yet been recognized as sold.

Provision for inventory write-downs is included in cost of goods sold and is determined based on the quantity of inventories on hand and the difference between net realizable value and original cost, where the net realizable value is lower. When assessing the amount of inventory to be written down, inventories that are subject to confirmed sales contracts—where the net realizable value is not lower than the carrying amount—are excluded, provided there is sufficient evidence that the customer is committed to fulfilling the contract and will not withdraw.

13. Principles for the recognition of financial expenses

Financial expenses include costs or losses related to financial activities, such as: Costs or losses from financial investments, borrowing and lending costs, expenses from contributions to joint ventures or associates, losses from the transfer of short-term securities, expenses incurred from securities trading transactions, provisions for devaluation of trading securities, provisions for losses from investments in other entities, losses from foreign currency sales, and exchange rate losses.

14. Principles for the recognition of selling expenses and administrative expenses

Sale expenses reflect the actual costs incurred in the process of selling products or goods or providing services, including the costs of offering goods, introducing products, advertising products, sales commissions, expenses for product and goods warranty (except for construction activities), expenses for preservation, packing and transportation.

Management expenses reflect general management expenses of the enterprise, including expenses for salaries of employees of the enterprise management sections (salaries, wages, allowances ...); social insurance, health insurance, trade union funds, unemployment insurance of enterprise managers; expenses for office materials, labor tools, depreciation of fixed assets used for enterprise management; land rent, excise tax; provision for bad debts; Outbound services (electricity, water, telephone, fax, property insurance, fire and explosion); Other monetary expenses (guest reception, customer conference ...).

15. Principles and methods for recognizing corporate income tax expenses

Corporate income tax expenses recorded in the income statement include current corporate income tax expenses and deferred corporate income tax expenses.

Current corporate income tax expenses are determined based on taxable income and the corporate income tax rate applicable for the current year.

Deferred corporate income tax expenses are determined based on temporary differences between tax and accounting, non-deductible expenses, adjustments for non-taxable income, and carried-forward losses.

A geographical segment is a distinguishable component of an enterprise that is engaged in providing products or services within a particular economic environment and that is subject to risks and returns that are different from those of components operating in other economic environments.

17. Financial instruments

The Corporation's financial assets include cash and cash equivalents, short-term receivables, other receivables, and held-to-maturity investments.
